RE: TE Connectivity Statement on Corporate Responsibility

TE Connectivity ("TE") is committed to conducting business in responsible ways that provide an advantage to its employees, customers, and shareholders. TE has extensive programs addressing environmental responsibility and workplace safety, labor practices, ethics, and other matters important to its stakeholders. Each year TE responds to the Carbon Disclosure Project (CDP) and releases a corporate responsibility report. TE also is honored to have been listed on the Dow Jones Sustainability Index (DJSI) North America in 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015.

TE is familiar with the principles of the Electronic Industry Citizen Coalition (EICC), Social Accountability International's SA8000 standard, Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises and other customer codes of conduct. In fact TE has adopted its own "Guide to Ethical Conduct" which includes programs, policies and practices that embody the principles set forth by these organizations.

In order to reinforce TE's policies on human rights, TE became a signatory of the UN Global Compact (UNGC) in 2011 and committed to communicating progress on the ten principles of the UNGC, which align with the core values of TE Connectivity. TE also promotes its Supplier Social Responsibility Program, which includes the "TE Guide to Supplier Social Responsibility" and an active, comprehensive review and audit of our suppliers and their social responsibility activities.

Included below are links to TE documents that provide more information about TE's principles and our commitment to being a responsible corporate citizen.

Sincerely,

Michele Blair
